

The War Within is a gritty, action-packed, and vividly told story of seventeen year old Boston debutante, Cathleen ODonnell and her struggle to survive an Indian attack that killed her family, and forced her to depend on a hated Rebel to avoid being sold to Mexican traders as a slave. Cathleens father, U.S.Army Colonel Patrick ODonnell and family, had traveled West by stage coach. On the same road Confederate Cavalry Major Henry Morgan, bitter and alone,rode his horse. They were part of a flood of North and South veterans seeking a fresh start and trying to forget the Civil War. Comanche Indians viewed the invading Whites as prey, that provided an opportunity for glory, slaves, and horses. The clash of the two cultures was a bloody continuation of the emotional stress of the Civil War. Cathleen and Morgan, must heal their personal animosity and control individual fears, to out run the vengeful Indians on their trail... or die.
